ON THE COVER

Meet Sherlock. This beautiful, burly cat is a real love. He is one of our Feline Leukemia Virus Positive adoption program success stories. At 4 years old, he is healthy and happy and now has a new home. Read his Happy Ending story.

LETTER

FROM THE EXECUTIVE DIRECTOR

Meet Tree House's New Executive Director, Raissa Allaire

When I accepted the Executive Director position at Tree House Humane Society, my mentor gave me simple and clear advice: "Save more lives and spread good ideas."

Spending time on the front lines during my first few weeks at Tree House, I saw many good ideas in action – technologies, processes, and best practices in animal sheltering. In every corner of the organization, Tree House is a reflection of your compassion and care for cats and is truly a place you can be proud of.

In my first month, I also attended a conference for animal welfare administrators. We discussed key challenges facing the sector. How do we seed new ideas to better serve our communities' animal welfare deserts – hard-to-reach neighborhoods where pet care and education are not as accessible? And, how do we develop new models of effectiveness and engage other social purpose organizations in service of both people and pets?

I am excited to build upon Tree House's legacy – creating a place that provides exceptional care for community cats, offers education and memorable, fun activities for animal lovers of all ages, and is a center that activates an army of feline advocates to look out for the well-being of all community cats. With you by our side, we can turn our best ideas into action and be a leader in tackling feline welfare's difficult challenges.

Raissa Allaire
Tree House Humane Society Executive Director

HAPPY ENDINGS

AN FELV+ CAT NOW HAS A LOVING HOME

At Tree House, we believe every healthy and treatable cat deserves to have a forever home - including cats with special needs and chronic illnesses such as Feline Leukemia Virus (FeLV). Many people are unfamiliar with FeLV, and, sadly, many cats who have the disease are euthanized due to a lack of adequate resources or knowledge.

FeLV positive (FeLV+) cats can live happy and healthy lives even though their lives might be shorter than an FeLV- cat. Tree House knew there had to be a better way, so we created a permanent FeLV adoption room at our new shelter. Tree House became the only shelter in Chicago, and one of the few in the country, with a dedicated adoption program for FeLV+ cats. Since that time, we have become a resource for shelters throughout the Midwest, and many FeLV+ cats have been transferred to Tree House who might otherwise have been euthanized.

Contrary to some beliefs, FeLV is not cancer. It is a virus that breaks down a cat's immune system, making the cat more susceptible to illnesses that otherwise do not impact healthy cats. These secondary illnesses are what typically lead to an FeLV+ cat's death. While the estimated lifespan of a cat with FeLV is three to four years, we've had many FeLV+ cats who have lived much longer. Sherlock is a great example.

A burly cat with a great personality to match, Sherlock is a loveable guy who was transferred to Tree House from another shelter that lacked the resources to help him. He is a healthy and happy FeLV+ cat who is now four years old. We believe, no matter how long a cat lives, they deserve a chance to live in a happy home.

Sherlock gained many fans at Tree House as well as on TV when he visited Chicago's WGN for an Adopt-a-Pet segment. During the segment, Sherlock slipped out of his harness and headed toward the couch; he obviously had different plans than the TV anchor, and hilarity ensued.

Sherlock

Curious and silly, Sherlock loves people, and it was a wonderful day when Morgan and Katherine came to Tree House for a visit and gave this great guy a home. After visiting several other shelters, Katherine shared, "I knew the minute I walked into Tree House that this was the place for me." She returned that weekend with her husband. They were open to learning more about FeLV - it is always so heartwarming when potential adopters are willing to give cats with special needs a chance and take the time to learn more about FeLV. After talking to our adoption counselors, "My husband and I felt that this was something we could easily handle. Every kitty in the FeLV+ adoption room would have been an option for us, but Sherlock was ours from the beginning. [It was] love at first sight."

Sherlock is settling into home life very well. "[He] likes to sit on his quilt and watch the traffic go by. He loves all his toys - for about three minutes, and then it is time to clean himself and pretend he was not just acting the goof. He is a constant companion - on the couch, in the bed, and right by the chair at mealtimes. We are very grateful to Tree House for taking such great care of Sherlock and helping us find him."

We are thrilled for Katherine, Morgan, and Sherlock. We hope this story inspires others to learn more about cats with Feline Leukemia Virus and to consider adopting them. These cats deserve a home, and while the time you have with them may be less, the love and joy they bring will fill your heart for much longer!

Support our efforts to help FeLV+ cats and the many other cats who struggle with illness, injuries, and chronic medical conditions. Your donation enables us to continue giving these cats the comfort and care they deserve and helps create more happy endings. Please send your tax-deductible donation in the included envelope or visit: TreeHouseAnimals.org/donate

Rosalba

I NEED A HOME

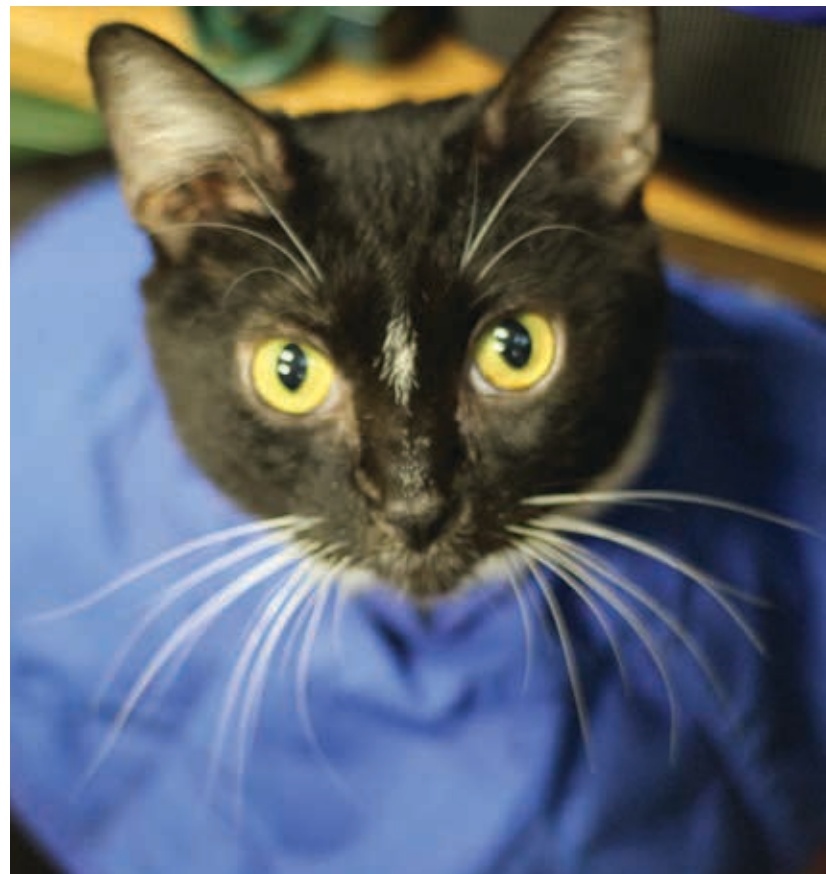

IN NEED OF A CARING AND UNDERSTANDING HUMAN

Rosalba was brought to Tree House Humane Society as a stray cat in 2013. Her years on the street were evident in her poor health. Rosalba was in significant pain and missing many of her teeth. She was suffering from serious dental disease. Many of her remaining teeth were loose and needed to be removed. She also had what appeared to be wounds on her neck and body. We determined she suffers from eosinophilic dermatitis, a disorder which causes her own immune system to overreact and produce painful ulcerated lesions. Allergies can be a cause of the lesions. Therefore, we systematically adjusted her diet and medications to determine what might be causing her reaction.

Thankfully, we saw a great deal of improvement in her condition, and the lesions diminished. She was adopted in 2014 but sadly returned in 2017 through no fault of her own and due in part to her condition. Rosalba had significant skin lesions when she returned. We put her on oral medication and gave her medicated baths to relieve her discomfort. A dedicated foster parent took on Rosalba's care, and we were able to reduce the skin lesions and get her condition under control. Rosalba was finally ready to return to our adoption floor. We placed her in her own separate room to enable us to monitor her diet and care.

Rosalba is a resilient girl and has made great progress. Even with all her struggles, she is a sweet and chatty cat. She loves attention and eagerly welcomes visitors. A silly girl, she loves to play and entertain and also loves pets. Her skin issues, however, cause severe itchiness. Therefore, she wears a toddler's t-shirt to prevent her from scratching the sores. Stress can contribute to her flare-ups, and while we continue to try many options to keep her comfortable, what Rosie really needs is a caring human who has the patience and compassion to not only provide her with the love and stability of a home but with the care she needs.

Long-term, Rosalba will most likely need ongoing medication. However, she is currently on only two pills a day. While her skin issues will take some management, she is a healthy and loving cat who deserves to live a happy life in a forever home. We hope someone will give this girl that chance.

SAVING CATS' LIVES EVERY DAY

We believe every cat deserves compassion and care and the chance to live a safe and happy life.

You can help change their lives by donating, volunteering your time, or giving a cat a home.
